CHAPTER 6 DENTAL SERVICES (BLOCKS 450–490)

Status of note: Revised – Eleventh Edition

Tenth Edition:

Note: The Australian Classification of Health Interventions (ACHI) Dental Services chapter is based on the Australian Dental Association's (ADA) publication 'The Australian Schedule of Dental Services and Glossary, 10th Edition'.

The third, fourth and fifth characters of the Australian Classification of Health Interventions dental codes (97011-00 to 97986-00) directly relate to the item number in the ADA's schedule.

For example:

97171-00 Odontoplasty, per tooth

171 Odontoplasty – per tooth

A stand-alone procedure to modify the contour of the crown of a tooth or the anatomy of the fissure of a tooth to provide an improved contour.

Some code descriptions vary slightly from the ADA's item number descriptions. Reference should be made to the ADA's schedule where further definition of code descriptions is required. The publication also contains diagrams which may be useful, especially in regard to defining the terminology used by dentists. An example of a variation in code description follows.

97774-00 Provision of obturator

774 Obturator

Some services within the ADA's schedule were not incorporated into Australian Classification of Health Interventions for the following reasons:

1. Duplication of a service classified within the Medicare Benefits Schedule.
Certain procedures performed by Oral and Maxillofacial surgeons and Plastic and Reconstructive surgeons can also be performed by Dentists. An example is the procedures relating to osseointegration (see Chapter 5 Nose, Mouth and Pharynx, block [400]). Wherever a duplication occurred, the ADA's item number was mapped to the relevant Australian Classification of Health Interventions code.

2. Other ADA item numbers not incorporated into Australian Classification of Health Interventions.

Certain ADA item numbers contain concepts which are not applicable to the Australian Classification of Health Interventions. For example: 412 Incomplete endodontic therapy (inoperable or fractured tooth).

For example: item numbers 087, 088, 089, 090 and 091 relating to cone beam volumetric tomography are all classified to 97091-00 [452] Cone beam volumetric tomography [CBVT] for orofacial structures.

CHAPTER 19

Noninvasive, cognitive and other interventions, not elsewhere classified (Blocks 1820–1922)

Note: Cognitive interventions – interventions which require cognitive skills such as evaluation, education or counselling (eg dietary education, nutritional assessment, crisis intervention, bereavement counselling).

Noninvasive interventions – therapeutic or diagnostic interventions without disruption of an epithelial lining or entry into a body part or cavity (eg lithotripsy, hyperbaric oxygenation, manipulation of a fracture, exercise therapy). Note that noninvasive diagnostic imaging interventions (those not requiring an incision or entry into a body part) are classified to Chapter 20 Imaging Services.

Client – the term 'Client' when used throughout this chapter, can refer to a patient, family member or significant other. 'Client' has generally been used in the singular form but can refer to an individual client or client group.

Tenth Edition:

CHAPTER 19

Interventions not elsewhere classified (Blocks 1820–1923)

This chapter is for diagnostic, therapeutic or administrative/clinical/client support and other interventions not elsewhere classified including:

Cognitive interventions – interventions that require cognitive skills such as evaluation, education or counselling (eg dietary education, nutritional assessment, crisis intervention, bereavement counselling).

Noninvasive interventions – therapeutic or diagnostic interventions without disruption of an epithelial lining or entry into a body part or cavity (eg lithotripsy, hyperbaric oxygenation, manipulation of a fracture, exercise therapy).

Note: The term 'Client' when used throughout this chapter, may refer to a patient, family member or significant other. 'Client' has generally been used in the singular form but may refer to an individual client or client group.

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

In response to suggestions made by the Neonatal CTG, an inclusion term 'high flow therapy [HFT] (nasal high flow nasal cannula [NHFC])' was created in block [570] Noninvasive ventilatory support.

High flow nasal cannula (HFNC), more commonly referred to as 'High flow' is a novel means of respiratory support, introduced as an alternative to noninvasive ventilation (NIV) as it delivers air and oxygen at flow rates greater than those traditionally used with a nasal interface (Groves & Tobin, 2007; Shoemaker et al. 2007). HFNC is more than simple oxygen enrichment as it involves the administration of ventilatory support (Australia and New Zealand Intensive Care Society, 2011, personal communication). HFNC allows sufficient warmth and high levels of humidification to breathing gas and permits higher flow rates from nasal cannula devices to be applied to patients (Dysart et al., 2009). This form of respiratory support is generally referred to as high flow therapy (HFT) (Dysart et al., 2009).

An excludes note at 92044-00 [1889] Other oxygen enrichment for: 'high flow therapy (high flow nasal cannula) (see block [570])' was created to ensure HFNC was assigned the correct code.

NINTH EDITION

Background:

Numerous percutaneous coronary interventions have been developed, many of which are performed in Australia.

Historically coronary intervention could reasonably have been presumed to be 'open' by the addition of a code for cardiopulmonary bypass; the absence of this code implied that the intervention had been performed by a closed or percutaneous approach. However, with the increase in open cardiac interventions being performed 'off pump', the absence of a code for cardiopulmonary bypass no longer distinguishes closed (percutaneous) and open interventions. Some interventions are specifically defined as being 'percutaneous' in the ACHI code title. Some of these percutaneous coronary intervention codes also have includes notes for 'cardiac catheterisation' to indicate the percutaneous approach via a catheter; the approach is inherent in the procedure and does not require the assignment of an additional code. Confusion arose with an apparent contradictory 'code also when performed note' for when a coronary angiogram/catheter is performed. This appeared, in some instances, to have been confused with the approach when in fact it is only intended for assignment when a diagnostic cardiac catheter/angiogram is performed as an additional procedure(s); the addition of which affects assignment of the DRG.

In an attempt to resolve this contradiction the "includes cardiac catheterisation" notes at 38488-08 [623], 38488-09 [628], 38488-10 [634] and 38488-00 [637] Percutaneous replacement of heart valve with prosthesis were removed in the second Errata to Eighth Edition. As this appears to have compounded the issue rather than resolving it, ACCD proposes to reinstate the "includes cardiac catheterisation" notes but remove all 'code also when performed coronary angiography' in Chapter 8 Procedures on cardiovascular system, as diagnostic cardiac catheters/angiograms will be coded when such procedure(s) are evident by a separate report detailing the procedure and results.

Background:

A public submission was received requesting the creation of codes for drug eluting stents. NCCH and CSAC did not support this suggestion. The decision was that this procedure should be coded as per insertion of a stent only. 1909 Conduction anaesthesia

SIXTH EDITION

Background:

A 3M query was received regarding the validity of the cerebral anaesthesia code 92514-60 [1910]. ASA descriptor '6' (a declared brain-dead patient whose organs are being removed for donor purposes) should never be assigned with an emergency modifier '0' (procedure being performed as an emergency). For this reason, there have never been codes in ACHI (or the Electronic Code List - ECL) in blocks [1909], [1910] and [1333] with the extension '60'.

A note was added in the above blocks to clarify this issue.

ACHI CODES WITH NO MATCHING MBS NUMBERS

SIXTH EDITION

Background:

NCCH was notified by the Department of Health and Ageing, Casemix Technical Development Section that the following 20 ACHI codes (not starting with '9') did not have matching MBS item numbers:

32505-00, 41883-00, 41883-01, 41883-02, 42800-00, 42803-00, 45521-00, 45521-01, 45521-02, 45521-03, 45521-04, 45521-05, 55112-00, 59900-00, 59900-01, 59900-02, 59915-00, 59918-00, 59921-00, 59924-00.

NCCH reviewed the MBS items applicable to the above codes. With the exception of items 32505, 42800, 42803 and 45521 (see below), the items ceased to be valid without being listed as deleted items in the summary of changes in MBS.

MBS items 32505, 42800, 42803 and 45521 were updated as deleted item numbers in July 1998 but were not included in First Edition.

For Sixth Edition, most of the above codes were inactivated and replaced with valid MBS item based codes. However, some of the codes were inactivated without being replaced, where there were existing ACHI codes with similar concepts and national frequencies for the MBS item based codes was low.

Minor amendments were made to inclusion terms, excludes and includes notes etc as necessary, to support the changes.

ALLIED HEALTH (BLOCKS 1820-1916)

SECOND EDITION

Background:

The intent of the extensive changes was to delete any reference to the service provider in the allied health interventions and remove duplication or overlap of interventions. Provider neutrality is a key procedure classification principle and forms the basis of the entire classification.

Essentially, the purpose of any procedure or intervention classification is to identify what was performed, rather than who performed the intervention. Identifying the service provider in the intervention code description is duplicating information that is captured elsewhere in information systems and can be linked to the intervention codes.

The Allied Health chapter (XXI) and the Miscellaneous Procedures chapter (XIX) were combined into one, Chapter XIX Non-invasive, cognitive and interventions not elsewhere classified (Blocks [1820] to [1916]). Definitions for cognitive, noninvasive, interventions and client is found at the beginning and throughout the chapter.

The generalised allied health intervention codes which identify the provider were retained in block [1916] (block [2140] in First Edition). This allows for the assignment of these codes where the detail is not needed or where it is desired to use a generalised code in addition to a specific code.

ANAESTHESIA CODES (BLOCKS 485, 487, 1333, 1909–1913)

THIRD EDITION

Background:

Numerous changes were made to the anaesthetic codes following a Classification Update Forum on Anaesthetics held in March 2001. This followed an initial request forwarded to the NCCH by the National Health Information Management Group (NHIMG) from the Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthetists and the Consultative Council on Anaesthetic Mortality and Morbidity in 1999 who requested a review of anaesthetic coding.

To enhance data collection, the codes in blocks [1333], [1909] and [1910] require a two character extension which represents the patient's American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA) score. The ASA score is the first character of the extension. The second character of the extension represents whether a modifier of 'E' is recorded on the anaesthetic form. The 'E' signifies a procedure that is being performed as an emergency.

Procedure block titles were revised, created and inactivated to coincide with changes made to the anaesthesia codes.

FOURTH EDITION

Background:

Following the education workshops and coding queries regarding Third Edition anaesthesia changes, a number of areas were identified as needing further refinement.

Intravenous regional anaesthesia (Bier's Block) –

There were a number of queries regarding the classification of retrograde perfusion of limb to local anaesthesia. Consequently, the inclusion term retrograde perfusion of limb (Bier's Block) was removed from 92513-XX [1909], Infiltration of local anaesthetic and a separate code created, with the more clinically correct title of Intravenous regional anaesthesia within block [1909] Conduction anaesthesia.

Anaesthesia for surgical procedures following neuraxial block in labour -

Third Edition identified that there was no code for obstetric patients who required a top up or extension of their neuraxial block (originally administered for pain relief), to provide anaesthesia for other delivery procedures, such as removal of retained placenta and repair of obstetric tears. The code descriptor of 92507-XX [1333] Neuraxial block during labour and caesarean section was changed to Neuraxial block during labour and delivery procedure to make it a more generic code, which includes other types of delivery procedures.

An includes note was added to provide guidance on the type of procedures which may be covered by this code; however the list is not exhaustive.

ASPIRATION THROMBECTOMY OF CORONARY ARTERY

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

Numerous types of adjunctive coronary devices have been developed in conjunction with percutaneous coronary intervention (PCI) during acute myocardial infarction. These include aspiration thrombectomy, mechanical thrombectomy, rotational atherectomy and use of embolic protection devices. The classification of different types of adjunctive coronary intervention is based on the mechanism of action.

Aspiration thrombectomy of the coronary artery is performed by a catheter that is advanced to the thrombus over a guidewire and aspiration performed through syringe suction (Bavry Kumbhani & Bhatt, 2008). This is different to rotational atherectomy in that the latter uses a rotator, a device which is composed of a guidewire that is advanced through the narrow portion of the artery and a spinning blade grinding the hardened plaque into particles.

The other types of adjunctive coronary devices are mechanical thrombectomy and embolic protection devices. The mechanical thrombectomy devices apply energy through saline jets to facilitate break-up of the thrombus and embolic protection devices employ an occlusive balloon or filter which is positioned distal to the area of treatment trapping the debris during the procedure (Mongeon et al, 2010). Embolic protection devices are most commonly used to capture debris that is dislodged during stenting of degenerated SVGs (Saphenous Vein Grafts).

The following changes were made to ACHI Eighth Edition:

New codes in block [669] Excision procedures on coronary arteries:

NINTH EDITION

Background:

The majority of the changes to Bariatric MBS items for July 2013 are changes to item numbers only. The new items were added to ACHI Appendix A Mapping Table: For MBS items not included in ACHI.

Terminology – Adjustment/adjustable

The term adjustment/adjustable has two meanings in bariatric/obesity procedures:

- As part of a device (eg adjustable gastric band)
- Meaning repositioning – this is consistent with the use of this term in other ACHI chapters

ACHI Eighth Edition (block [889]) lists the following codes containing the term adjustment/adjustable:

- 30511-02 Laparoscopic adjustable gastric banding
- 30511-04 Adjustable gastric banding
- 14215-01 Adjustment of gastric band reservoir

14215-01 contains an inclusion term: Accessing in order to add or remove fluid (saline) from implanted reservoir/port of gastric band to adjust tightness. This is not technically correct, as it is the gastric band that is being adjusted, not the reservoir; the adjustment of the band is performed via accessing the reservoir. This is a noninvasive procedure that may be performed a number of times in the weeks following insertion of the gastric band to achieve the correct tightness of the device. It is not usually performed as an inpatient procedure.

MBS created the following items:

- 31587 Adjustment of gastric band as an independent procedure...

31587 includes the concept of accessing the reservoir in order to add or remove fluid (saline) to adjust tightness of the gastric band. It is recommended that this should not be included in block [889] and instead be situated in Chapter 19 Noninvasive, cognitive and other interventions, not elsewhere classified, therefore a code is proposed - 31587-00 [1895] Adjustment of gastric band.

- 31590 Adjustment of gastric band reservoir, repair, revision or replacement

31590 includes the concept of adjustment meaning repositioning. In ACHI Eighth Edition the concepts of adjustment of gastric band and adjustment of gastric band reservoir are mixed. There is also no ACHI code (or MBS item) to classify adjustment – meaning repositioning – of a gastric band. Therefore, the following codes are proposed:

- 31590-00 [889] Revision of gastric band reservoir (the broader term revision was used to include the concepts of adjustment, repair, replacement and repositioning).
- 30511-11 [889] Laparoscopic revision of gastric band – to classify removal and reinsertion/replacement/adjustment (meaning repositioning) of gastric band.
- 30511-12 [889] Revision of gastric band – to classify open removal and reinsertion/replacement/adjustment (repositioning) of gastric band.

ACHI Eighth Edition includes specific codes for adjustable and nonadjustable gastric banding. ACCD revised this decision, considering the distinction to be unnecessary for classification purposes.

Revision procedure for obesity

30515-01 Revision procedure for obesity contains an inclusion term: Surgical reversal of procedure for obesity. This code caused confusion for coders who want to assign the code to classify revision = repositioning of gastric band. Coding Rules December 2013/Eighth Edition Education Workshop FAQs – Part 2/Laparoscopic gastric band advised that repositioning of a gastric band is classified as 90943-01 [889] Other laparoscopic procedures for obesity or 90943-00 [889] Other procedures for obesity. The ACCD proposes splitting the concept of revision procedure for obesity to identify:

- Revision of gastric band = adjustment/removal and reinsertion/replacement
- Revision of:
 - Gastric bypass
 - Gastroplasty
 - Biliopancreatic diversion
 - Sleeve gastrectomy
 - Other bariatric procedures

The following amendments were made for ACHI Ninth Edition:

- Creation of codes in block [889]:
 - 30511-11 Laparoscopic revision of gastric band
 - 30511-12 Revision of gastric band
 - 30511-13 Laparoscopic gastric banding

 - 90950-03 Endoscopic removal of device from stomach
- Creation of a code in block [1895]:

BIOPSY OF PROSTATE AND SEMINAL VESICLE

NINTH EDITION

Background:

MBS amended the description of item 37219 by removing the term ‘transrectal’ from ‘transrectal needle biopsy of prostate’. Item number 55600 also does not include the term ‘transrectal’ in the item description.

On review of ACHI codes for closed biopsy of the prostate, it was also noted that block [1163] Closed biopsy of prostate or seminal vesicle does not contain a code for transperineal needle biopsy of the prostate. This procedure is performed in hospitals across Australia and involves placing a grid template with multiple holes outside the perineum (between the anus and the scrotum) and inserting a biopsy needle into the prostate through different holes to obtain biopsies from defined areas of the prostate. The transperineal prostate biopsy is performed under transrectal ultrasound guidance. Transrectal needle biopsy is also performed under transrectal ultrasound guidance but with biopsy of the prostate tissue taken transrectally.

National frequencies on the usage of codes in blocks [1163] and [1164] also demonstrated low usage of the codes for closed and open biopsy of the seminal vesicle. Therefore the codes for closed and open biopsy of seminal vesicle codes with the biopsy of prostate codes were combined according to their corresponding approaches.

The following changes were made to the ACHI Ninth Edition:

- Amended code title of 37218-00 [1163] to Needle biopsy of prostate or seminal vesicle
- Added inclusion terms 'Transperineal (grid) biopsy of prostate or seminal vesicle' and 'Transrectal biopsy of prostate or seminal vesicle' to 37218-00 [1163]
- Amended existing inclusion term to 'Percutaneous aspiration of prostate or seminal vesicle'
- Deleted the excludes note at 37218-00 [1163]
- Deleted codes 30094-08, 37219-00 [1163] and 30075-21 [1164]
- Added inclusion term 'Transurethral biopsy of prostate' at 37215-00 [1164]
- Amended code title of 37218-00 [1163] to Open biopsy of prostate and seminal vesicle

BONE MARROW (STEM CELL) TRANSPLANTATION

TWELFTH EDITION

Background:

A public submission was received seeking improvements to the classification of bone marrow and stem cell transplantation.

Clinical advice noted that the term bone marrow transplant (BMT) is often used as a general term to describe various types of stem cell transplant (SCT). SCT can be either autologous, where the patient's own stem cells are used for the transplant, or allogeneic, where stems are transplanted from a healthy donor.

In previous editions of ACHI, block [802] Bone marrow/stem cell transplantation did not distinguish types of donor or stem cells being administered.

Transplantation codes also previously included the concept of 'with in vitro processing' even when not specified in the documentation (ie as the default), and may not have accurately reflected activity.

Block [820] Haematopoietic stem cell transplantation and 13706-xx [820] Haematopoietic stem cell transplantation were created, with extension codes to identify donor type (first character) and transplanted cell type (second character).

CARDIAC ABLATION PROCEDURES

SIXTH EDITION

Background:

Cardiac ablation blocks/codes were reviewed following the receipt of a public submission. The main issues were that the current procedure classification lacks specificity, does not reflect the resources used and does not adequately describe the complexities of the different types of cardiac ablation procedures.

Changes included:

- codes 38287-00, 38290-00 [601] and 38212-01 [665] were inactivated
- codes were created for percutaneous catheter based and open (sternotomy or thoracotomy) cardiac ablation procedures.

CHAPTER 7 REVIEW; BRONCHOSCOPIC PROCEDURES

NINTH EDITION

Background:

In response to a number of public submissions and coding queries, a review was performed on the block structure in ACHI Chapter 7 Procedures on Respiratory System. It was determined to be problematic as it restricted the creation of new blocks. In Eighth Edition, there were no blocks for destruction procedures on the bronchus or lung and codes for these procedures were included in the blocks for other procedures of these sites. Also, there were a number of overlaps with the second axis (site). For example, endoscopic biopsy of the lung (NOS) was classified to 41898-01 [544] Fibreoptic bronchoscopy with biopsy which was located in the Bronchus section and endoscopic biopsy of the pleura was classified to 38436-00 [559] Thoracoscopy which was located in the Chest wall, mediastinum and diaphragm section of Chapter 7 – despite the existence of a specific section for procedures on the lung and pleura. Therefore, a number of code amendments were made to relocate procedures on specific sites to the appropriate sections of Chapter 7:

- [543] – [547] Procedures on bronchus
- [548] – [558] Procedures on lung and pleura
- [559] – [567] Procedures on chest wall, mediastinum and diaphragm

Chapter 7 was also 'tidied up' to eliminate unnecessary code duplication. For example, where codes specified type of equipment (eg rigid or fibreoptic bronchoscope), diagnostic terms (eg bronchogenic cyst), or method (eg laser) – codes were inactivated and generic codes created.

The following amendments were made for ACHI Ninth Edition:

- Addition of an includes note at blocks [543] and [544] for electromagnetic navigation
- Creation of includes note for via linear bronchoscope – in appropriate codes
- Inactivation of specific codes for insertion/replacement/removal of endobronchial stent and the creation of codes in block [546] Repair procedures on bronchus for endoscopic insertion/replacement/removal of bronchial device (to classify endobronchial stent and endobronchial valve).
- Creation of codes in block [547] Other procedures on bronchus for endoscopic and open destruction procedures on bronchus – to classify bronchial thermoplasty and bronchoscopy with Argon plasma coagulation.
- Creation of codes in block [558] Other procedures on lung and pleura – 90181-01 Endoscopic destruction procedures on lung and 90181-02 Other closed destruction procedures on lung
- Deletion of a number of specific codes with:
 - creation of generic bronchoscopy codes in blocks [543] and [544]
 - creation of generic codes for endoscopic, open and other closed (percutaneous) procedures on bronchus, lung and pleura, chest wall, mediastinum or diaphragm
 - amendment of existing codes to classify generic concepts of endoscopic, open and other closed (percutaneous) procedures on bronchus, lung and pleura, chest wall, mediastinum or diaphragm
- Indexing amendments as appropriate

An inclusion term was created at 30688-00 [1949] Endoscopic ultrasound for endobronchial ultrasound; this code was also added as an exception in ACS 0042 Procedures normally not coded – as it is an invasive procedure and is usually performed under sedation. Previously, coders were confused as to whether this code should be assigned when other endoscopic procedures are concurrently performed, as it is located in Chapter 20 Imaging services.

A public submission highlighted that when continuous ventilatory support (CVS) or noninvasive ventilation (NIV) are used in combination but neither mode is ≥ 96 hours, was being underfunded following Seventh Edition ACS 1006 Ventilatory support guidelines to code out each mode separately.

Following assessment of the public submission and clinical consultation, block [571] Combined ventilatory support and code 92211-00 Management of combined ventilator support ≥ 96 hours were created.

DIAGNOSES IN PROCEDURE CODES

THIRD EDITION

Background:

Investigation revealed that no specific information was gained from having diagnosis descriptions included in procedure titles, as these terms are identified by the disease code. Essentially, the purpose of any procedure or intervention classification is to identify what was performed, without referring to diagnoses.

Based on this logic diagnostic terms such as for epilepsy and arrhythmia were removed from procedure code titles, as the patient's condition is identified by the disease code. Information such as the patient's age is captured by the Admitted patient data collection.

General terms retained in code descriptions include:

- lesion
- tumour
- abscess
- post-op haemorrhage
- cyst
- adhesions
- vascular anomaly

The review included creating, amending and resequencing codes to replace inactivated codes. Some blocks were inactivated and codes relocated to other blocks. A number of overlapping procedures and inconsistencies with the MBS item numbers were rectified for standardization. Where possible, the MBS item numbers were retained – NCCH understands that, without reference to a specific condition, these codes may have a broader application.

Osteomyelitis – there were a number of codes with titles that include the description procedures for osteomyelitis. No specific information was gained from the codes, except that they were a procedure (no specificity as to type) that was performed for osteomyelitis. Treatment for osteomyelitis includes antibiotic packing, drainage of bone abscess, drilling of bone and sequestrectomy. Codes were created for these combinations, enabling assignment of specific codes for the different types of procedures performed for osteomyelitis.

Skin lesions – codes with reference to morphology type, benign, malignant, BCC/SCC etc were removed as part of a general review of the codes containing diagnoses. There were a number of overlapping areas and users had difficulty applying specified codes, therefore one category encompassing all excision of skin lesions by site - regardless of morphology – was created.

Deep Brain Stimulation – the references to epilepsy were deleted

Laryngoscopy with excision – Codes were inactivated or revised for consistency with the change in terminology from tumour to lesion in code titles.

Anaesthesia – codes containing the term anaesthesia, with anaesthesia, without anaesthesia, under anaesthesia, etc were removed from code titles for consistency with changes implemented with ACS 0031. The practice of coding anaesthesia as a separate procedure resulted in a number of redundant procedure codes. Where there were two codes for the same procedure, the code based on or closest to the MBS number was retained, but retitled to exclude the term anaesthesia.

Procedure block titles were revised, created or inactivated for consistency with the above changes.

ENDOSCOPIC/LAPAROSCOPIC/ARTHROSCOPIC PROCEDURE PROCEEDING TO OPEN PROCEDURE

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

Public submission (16/09) was received regarding laparoscopic colectomy and laparoscopic procedures converting to open procedures. Furthermore, a workshop was with a representative group of clinicians from the Obesity Surgery Society of Australia and New Zealand (OSSANZ) and the clinicians suggested a code be created for “Laparoscopic procedure for obesity proceeding to an open procedure for obesity”.

Endoscopy

Endoscopy is a medical procedure that allows a doctor to observe the inside (of an organ or cavity) in the body without performing major surgery (A.D.A.M., Inc, 2011; State Government of Victoria, 2010). The endoscope is a long flexible tube with a lens at one end and a small (video) camera at the other (A.D.A.M., Inc, 2011; State Government of Victoria, 2010).

There are many types of endoscopes or “scopes” and individual endoscopes have been developed for different parts of the body. Each one is named according to the part of the body it is intended to investigate (myDr, 2011; State Government of Victoria, 2010). Depending on the area of the body being looked at, it may be passed through a natural opening such as mouth, urethra or anus (American Cancer Society, 2011; State Government of Victoria, 2010). In some cases, a small surgical incision is made for the scope to enter.

NCCC notes that whilst laparoscopy and arthroscopy are encompassed in the broader field of endoscopy, there is benefit in creating specific codes for “laparoscopic procedures proceeding to open surgery” as most colorectal, bariatric and gynaecological procedures are performed via laparoscopy.

The following changes were made toACHI and ACS:

ENGINEERED CELL AND GENE THERAPIES (CAR T-CELL THERAPY)

TWELFTH EDITION

Background:

Cell and gene therapies are rapidly evolving health technologies in both engineered and non-engineered forms. These treatments are a form of immunotherapy.

Genetically engineered cell therapy may be referred to as adoptive cell transfer or adoptive cell therapy. Chimeric antigen receptor (CAR) T-cell therapy, or CAR T-cell therapy, is an example of cell therapy. CAR-T therapy uses specially altered T-cells to directly and precisely target cancer cells. It may also be referred to by its registered brand name Kymriah®. These therapies offer a treatment alternative for a wide variety of diseases, including neoplastic conditions.

A block and codes were created to classify these interventions.

FAT GRAFT IN SPINAL SURGERY

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

A DRG submission (DP71) requesting a review of DRG assignment for fat graft in spinal surgery were received. The submission raised a concern that with an additional fat graft code

45018-xx [1668] assigned for spinal surgery patients, this would group to a skin graft ARDRG rather than the spinal procedure/fusion ARDRG. There is also an unpublished NCCH query (Q1553) regarding the coding of fat graft in spinal surgery, which states 'it is not necessary to code the fat graft itself as a separate procedure.'

To facilitate consistent coding and appropriate DRG assignment, the following changes were made to ACHI Eighth Edition:

- Add 'includes' notes to the relevant blocks in the Tabular List including any fat graft where fat is harvested from the same operative site
- Add 'code also' notes to the relevant blocks in the Tabular List for when the fat graft is harvested from another site.

ILEOCOLIC RESECTION

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

Ileocolic resection also referred to as ileocelectomy or ileocaecal resection is the most frequent performed surgical procedure for the treatment of Crohn's Disease (CD). CD is a chronic, relapsing inflammatory disorder of the gastrointestinal tract of unknown aetiology (AIHW, 2007). CD can occur at any age but it is most common in adolescents and young adults and between 1996–97 and 2004–05, hospital separation rates for CD in Australia increased by 58%, from 38 per 100,000 to 60 per 100,000 young people (AIHW 2007; Parry et al. 2010).

CD most often affects the ileum and colon (ileocolitis) (40–55%) and involves resection of the terminal ileum and caecum with an anastomosis created between the ileum and ascending colon.

Numerous studies indicate that ileocolic resection can be performed via laparoscopy or open surgery and results highlight that laparoscopic ileocolic resection is safe and associated with less morbidity, reduced hospital stay, better cosmesis and costs were significantly lower compared to open surgery (Alabaz et al. 2000; Benoist et al. 2003; Dasari, McKay and Gardiner, 2011; Huilgol, Wright and Solomon, 2004; Maartense et al. 2006).

The following codes were created as part of this proposal with appropriate indexing:

30515-03 Ileocolic resection with anastomosis

30515-04 Laparoscopic ileocolic resection with anastomosis

30515-05 Ileocolic resection with formation of stoma

IRREVERSIBLE ELECTROPORATION (IRE)

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

IRE was first introduced as a potential tissue ablation technique in 2005. It involves the insertion of a pair of fine needle electrodes into the tumour under general anaesthesia using ultrasound and CT guidance. An intense pulsating direct current is delivered to the target organ over 1-2 minutes causing the cancer cells to open microscopic pores permanently, or irreversibly. This ultimately causes the cancer cells to die, dissolve and be removed by the body's natural processes.

As a result of a public submission (Ref No 11/09), procedure code 90370-00 Other destruction of lesion of kidney was created in block [1046] Destruction procedures on kidney. Procedure code 90408-00 Other destruction of lesion of prostate was created in block [1162] Destruction of tissue of prostate. “Irreversible electroporation” was added as an inclusion term at:

MEDICARE BENEFITS SCHEDULE (MBS) UPDATES

Background:

The Australian Classification of Health Interventions (ACHI) is based on the Commonwealth Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS). A two digit extension number is added to an MBS item number to represent individual procedural concepts (eg 22075-00).

The MBS is updated each year in November with supplementary updates released in May. These updates are reviewed by NCCH and any relevant revisions are made to ACHI.

Item changes include:

Item deletion:

- an Item number that was deleted from the MBS

Item creation:

- an Item number that was created in the MBS

Item revision:

- an Item number descriptor that was revised
- an Item number deleted and replaced with a newly created Item number and descriptor remaining the same
- an Item number deleted and replaced with a newly created Item number and the descriptor revised

Procedural concepts may not have changed when an MBS item number was revised.

It is important to note that while some MBS item numbers have been revised and new item number have replaced a deleted Item number, the procedural concepts may not have been changed.

Block titles are revised, created or deleted to coincide with amended code titles that reflect MBS changes. Revision and/or deletion of ACHI codes may result in entire procedural blocks being deleted from ACHI.

MEDICARE BENEFITS SCHEDULE (MBS) UPDATES – March, July, August 2009 and January, May, July 2010

MBS UPDATES ON VARICOSE VEINS

NINTH EDITION

Background:

In the 2012 MBS updates, 4 new items were introduced for endovenous laser therapy (ELT) and endovenous radiofrequency ablation (ERA) of varicose veins. A new code 32520-00 [728] Endovenous interruption of veins will be created.

It was noted that the 3 varicose vein procedure codes were created inACHI from 2 MBS items (32508 and 32511) for very similar procedures. The concepts of these 3ACHI codes were combined into 1 code.

The following changes were made:

- Created a new code 32520-00 Endovenous interruption of veins in block [728] Other destruction procedures on veins
- Added inclusion terms 'Endovenous laser therapy [ELT] of varicose veins' and 'Endovenous radiofrequency ablation of varicose veins' at 32520-00 [728]
- Deleted 32508-01 [727] Interruption of sapheno-popliteal junction varicose veins and 32511-00 [727] Interruption of sapheno-femoral and sapheno-popliteal junction varicose veins
- Deleted 32504-01 [728] Interruption of multiple tributaries of varicose veins and 32507-00 [728] Subfascial interruption of 1 or more perforating varicose veins
- Created 32504-00 Interruption of varicose veins of multiple tributaries and 32507-01 Subfascial interruption of perforator veins in block [727]
- Amended block title of [727] to Interruption of varicose veins of lower limbs
- Amended includes and excludes notes at block [727]
- Deleted includes and excludes notes at block [728]
- Added excludes notes 'endovenous interruption of veins (32520-00 [728])' at block [727]
- Added commonly used terms 'Stab avulsion' and 'Stab phlebectomy' as inclusion terms at 32504-00 [727] Interruption of varicose veins of multiple tributaries
- Added commonly used term 'Injection of sclerosing agent (sclerotherapy) into varicose veins' as an inclusion term at 32500-01 [722] Multiple injection of varicose veins

It was also noted that 32514-00 [737] Reoperation for varicose veins does not provide information on the type of procedure done at the reoperation. This was amended to be able to specify the type of interruption performed and for consistency with the reoperation procedures in Chapter 8 Procedures on cardiovascular system

- Add 'code first: varicose vein procedures (see blocks [722], [727] and [728])' at 32514-00 [737] Reoperation for varicose veins
- Amend code title of 32514-00 [737] to Reoperation for varicose veins of lower limbs.

MBS UPDATES ON EXCISION OF LESION OR TISSUE OF RECTUM AND ANUS

NINTH EDITION

Background:

MBS updated the description of item number 32103 by removing the term "stereoscopic". After review of procedure codes in block [933] Excision of lesion or tissue of rectum or anus inACHI, the concepts in procedure codes for excision of lesion or tissue of rectum which are currently unnecessarily split by approach and method of excision were combined into 32099-00 [933] Per anal excision of lesion or tissue of rectum and 90341-00 [933] Other excision of lesion of rectum.

Advice in Coding Rules for “Stapled Transanal Rectal Resection (STARR)” which recommended the assignment of 32111-00 [933] Excision of rectal mucosa for rectal prolapse for this procedure was also incorporated.

The following changes were made:

- Combined concepts in procedure codes 32103-00 [933] Per anal excision of lesion or tissue of rectum via stereoscopic rectoscopy and 32099-00 [933] Per anal submucosal excision of lesion or tissue of rectum and inactivated 32103-00 [933]
- Combined concepts in procedure codes 32108-00 [933] Trans-sphincteric excision of lesion or tissue of rectum and 90341-00 [933] Other excision of lesion of rectum and inactivated 32108-00 [933]
- Added an inclusion term ‘Stapled transanal rectal resection (STARR)’ at 32111-00 [933] Excision of rectal mucosa for rectal prolapse

The Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS) updates for December 2017 to June 2020 included new and deleted items, and amended descriptions. These updates were reviewed and changes made to the ACHI Twelfth Edition.

Spinal interventions

A major change has been made to MBS items associated with spinal surgery services following recommendations from the MBS Review Taskforce. The revised spinal surgery items better describe the procedures being performed by spinal surgeons, reflecting the contemporary practice of spinal surgery (Australian Government 2019). The changes include:

- replacing the existing 76 spinal surgery MBS items with 60 new items
- removing MBS items identified as obsolete.

To maintain alignment with the MBS updates in ACHI, a review of spinal codes was undertaken. Issues relating to code titles containing diagnostic terms and inconsistencies across categories were also addressed.

MRI-GUIDED FOCUSED ULTRASOUND (MRgFUS) / HIGH INTENSITY FOCUSED ULTRASOUND (HIFUS)

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

To address the wide application of this procedure, it was decided that a generic HIFUS code would be created in addition to generic site specific destruction codes.

The following codes were created:

- 90908-01 [1949] High intensity focused ultrasound [HIFUS]
- 90370-00 [1046] Other destruction of lesion of kidney
- 90408-00 [1162] Other destruction of lesion of prostate
- 90451-00 [1263] Other destruction of lesion of uterus
- 90726-00 [1759] Other destruction of breast

Code also notes were created at the following codes to indicate to coders that an additional code would be required to identify HIFUS of a specified site:

- 90299-00 [956] Other destruction of liver
- 90370-00 [1046] Other destruction of lesion of kidney
- 90408-00 [1162] Other destruction of lesion of prostate

- 90726-00 [1759] Other destruction of breast

MUSCULOSKELETAL PROCEDURES

TWELFTH EDITION

Background:

There was a major update to the classification of musculoskeletal interventions for Twelfth Edition. Updates were informed by coding queries, public submissions and MBS updates (December 2017 to June 2020).

The following amendments were made forACHI Twelfth Edition:

- Codes were created in Chapter 15 Procedures on musculoskeletal system for joint interventions that were previously not classifiable. Techniques include open/arthroscopic debridement, osteoplasty, chondroplasty, stabilisation, notchplasty and reconstruction of the relevant joints, on sites such as the elbow, wrist, knee and ankle joints.
- A number of codes were created to classify excision of prosthesis without replacement for sites that were previously not classifiable, such as the humerus, radius, hand, finger, foot and toe.
- Clinical advice indicated that the terms 'large' and 'small' in excision of bursa (bursectomy) codes were arbitrary and possibly not well documented. Therefore, codes including these terms were inactivated, and codes created for excision of bursa, by operative technique rather than size. As excision of bursa (bursectomy) is routine in shoulder procedures such as reconstruction or rotator cuff repair; it was added to the Includes note at relevant codes.
- The concept of 'conversion of hemiarthroplasty to total joint replacement' was incorporated into existingACHI codes for revision arthroplasty of hip joint in block [1492] Revision arthroplasty of hip.
- To facilitate classification of revision of hemiarthroplasty the term 'total' was removed from the block and code titles at block [1523] Revision of arthroplasty of knee with bone graft to femur or tibia. The concept of 'conversion of hemiarthroplasty to total joint replacement' was incorporated into the existingACHI codes for revision arthroplasty of knee joint.

- Codes were created in block [1520] Other repair procedures on knee or leg to classify chondroplasty of knee with multiple drilling or implant by endoscopic or open approach separately. Other amendments at block [1520] Other repair procedures on knee or leg support the assignment of multiple codes, to better reflect the specific interventions performed.
- A simplified approach to the classification of chondroplasty with multiple drilling or implant resulted in the inactivation of the following blocks and their codes:
 - [1511] Removal of loose body of knee with repair
 - [1514] Lateral release of knee with repair
 - [1517] Arthroscopic meniscectomy of knee with repair.
- Codes for insertion and removal of bone or joint spacers were created when performed as an independent procedure, allowing the retirement of ACS 1316 Cement spacer/beads. These codes are only assigned when a spacer is inserted or removed as an independent procedure.
- Codes were created for total resection of long bones with endoprosthesis replacement, to differentiate them from en bloc resection of bone.
- Diagnostic terms (eg fracture and ischaemia) were removed from code titles where possible. The removal of diagnostic concepts from blocks [1423] Incision of fascia of forearm and [1497] Decompression fasciotomy of calf allowed these blocks and codes to be inactivated.
- ACHI code numbers for hand and wrist procedures were amended to align with Medicare Benefit Schedule (MBS) updates.

NECKLIFT

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

Following receipt and assessment of a public submission requesting a specific code for necklift, 45588-02 [1675] Necklift was created in ACHI 8th Edition. The Australian Society of Plastic Surgeons (ASPS) confirmed that:

- a necklift procedure is always bilateral - therefore, the NCCC did not create separate unilateral and bilateral codes for necklift
- when a facelift is performed, a necklift is generally also performed as an integral part of the facelift procedure – therefore, the NCCC retained the ‘includes necklift’ notes at codes 45587-00 [1675] Facelift, unilateral and 45588-00 [1675] Facelift, bilateral.

The following changes were made in ACHI Eighth Edition:

- Tabular List
 - Amended title block of [1675] from Facelift and browlift to Facelift, necklift and browlift
 - Created code 45588-02 Necklift in block [1675] with:
 - excludes note: that with facelift (45587-00, 45588-00 [1675])
 - code also when performed notes:
 - browlift (45587-01, 45588-01 [1675])
 - eyelid reduction (45617-00, 45620-00 [1662])

NEW/MISSING CLINICAL CONCEPTS

TWELFTH EDITION

Background:

Multiple public submissions were received regarding health technologies that have been in use in Australian hospitals but are not uniquely classified in the Australian Classification of Health Interventions (ACHI). IHACPA's classification development principles prioritise submissions that identify significant gaps in the classification that do not reflect contemporary clinical practice.

IHACPA identified ten public submissions that requested recognition of new technologies in ACHI and reviewed these by considering the following:

- support from current evidence in the medical literature in the use of these technologies
- alignment with concepts from the World Health Organization's (WHO) International Classification of Health Interventions (ICHI)
- current inclusion in other international classifications: USA ICD-10 Procedure Coding System (ICD 10 PCS) and Canadian Classification of Health Interventions (CCI)
- benefit in providing further granularity in the classifications by reviewing activity data volume from 2015–16 to 2019–20 for public hospitals and 2015–16 to 2018–19 for private hospitals.

Amendments were made to ACHI Tabular List for the following new/missing clinical concepts:

- electrohydraulic lithotripsy
- whole lung lavage
- intravascular ultrasound
- resection of pyriform fossa tumour
- arytenoidoepexy
- transcatheter ventricular ablation
- non-bronchoscopic broncho-alveolar lavage
- meso-portal (REX) shunt
- intestine transplant
- transperineal biopsy of the prostate.

- Termination of pregnancy (abortion)

90462-01 [1330] Termination of pregnancy [abortion procedure], not elsewhere classified was created to classify termination of pregnancy (TOP) (abortion) techniques not classified to 90461-00 [1330] Intra-amniotic injection or surgical techniques classified to block [1265] Curettage and evacuation of uterus. Examples include medical abortion such as misoprostol or prostaglandin via oral administration or suppository.

Note that where documentation indicates that TOP is performed following induction of labour, an appropriate code from block [1334] Medical or surgical induction of labour is assigned, by following the Alphabetic Index at Induction/labour/medical.

- Hysterectomy

Amendments were made to blocks [1268] Abdominal hysterectomy and [1269] Vaginal hysterectomy:

- Creation of codes for 'laparoscopic' and 'laparoscopically assisted' interventions
- The concepts of 'radical excision of pelvic lymph nodes' and 'removal of adnexa' were separated from the hysterectomy codes. Assign additional codes for these interventions, when performed.

- Spontaneous delivery

The term 'vertex' was deleted from the title of block [1336] Spontaneous delivery, to include the concepts of spontaneous breech delivery and spontaneous delivery of placenta NEC

- Assisted vertex delivery

90477-01 [1343] Assisted vertex delivery was created for assignment with O83 Other assisted single delivery and O84.81 Multiple delivery, all assisted, not elsewhere classified. This code is assigned with codes for specific interventions assisting delivery (eg McRoberts manoeuvre, manual removal of placenta).

- Biopsy of uterus

Block [1264] was renamed: Biopsy of uterus, and two codes were created for laparoscopic and open biopsy of uterus (to classify biopsy of endometrium or uterine serosa).

- Other new ACHI codes

A number of codes were created based on coding queries, and amendments to ICD-10-AM and the ACS:

- 'Implantation' and 'removal' of brachytherapy applicator for female genital organ (ie vagina, cervix, uterus) in block [1299] Other procedures on female genital organs

PHARMACOTHERAPY

FOURTH EDITION

Background:

A review of procedure coding for drug administration was undertaken in August 2002. The main issues included length of time of treatment, length of stay of patient and type of drug, and these were discussed in detail.

Drug administration procedures relating to anaesthesia, perfusion and pain management were not reviewed at this time.

The review resulted in the following changes:

- Creation of blocks in Chapter XIX Non-invasive, cognitive and other interventions, not elsewhere classified:
 - [1920] Pharmacotherapy
 - [1921] Loading of drug delivery device
 - [1922] Other pharmacotherapy procedures
- Creation of codes based on route of administration (ie intravenous, intramuscular etc) with a two character extension for drug type
- Revision of all drug administration codes and incorporation of these codes (or their concepts) into the new blocks, as appropriate – or deleting them from the classification entirely.
- Revision of the use of the terms injection, instillation and infusion and instituting the more general term administration of...
- Introduction of the term Pharmacotherapy to ACHI – defined as “the treatment of disease by means of drugs”.

Procedure block titles were revised, created or inactivated for consistency with changes to drug administration/pharmacotherapy coding.

SENTINEL LYMPH NODE BIOPSY (SLNB)

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

SLNB involves three steps:

- Lymphoscintigram
- Intraoperative lymphatic mapping with blue dye
- Selective biopsy of lymph nodes identified as “sentinel” nodes

Lymphoscintigram

This is a nuclear medicine scan and is also referred to as a mapping test or lymphatic drainage scan. This procedure is usually done pre-operatively. A tiny dose of radioactive tracer (technetium-99) is injected into the skin around the site of the cancer. The tracer moves through the skin's lymphatic system and special scans are performed to determine the regional lymph node area to which drainage occurs. In theory, the first node draining a lymphatic basin (sentinel lymph node) would be expected to predict the absence or presence of melanoma in that area.

Intraoperative lymphatic mapping

In the operating theatre, a blue dye is injected into the skin around the site of the cancer. The dye is rapidly absorbed into the lymphatic system and moves to the regional lymph nodes. The dye assists in identifying the SLN.

Selective lymph node biopsy

In the operating theatre, the sentinel nodes can be visually identified by the blue stained lymph vessel and node and/or by using a hand-held gamma probe to pinpoint the radiolabelled lymph node. The nodes are surgically excised and sent to histopathology for examination where further treatment decisions are based on the metastatic status of the sentinel nodes. If no melanoma cells are found, no further surgery is done. If cancerous cells are found to be present in the SLNB, a complete dissection i.e. removal of all the lymph nodes in the region will be required.

The following amendments were made for ACHI Tabular List Eighth Edition:

30300-00 [808] Sentinel lymph node biopsy of axilla

Amended code title from Sentinel lymph node biopsy to Sentinel lymph node biopsy of axilla in conjunction with the creation of the code 30300-01 Sentinel lymph node biopsy, not elsewhere classified. The ‘in level I, II or III’ from inclusion term was deleted and therefore, the note was deleted as it was no longer required. 30300-00 was originally derived from MBS item number 30300 and also incorporates item numbers 30299, 30302 and 30303 for use for sentinel lymph node biopsy of breast cancers.

30300-01 [805] Sentinel lymph node biopsy, not elsewhere classified

Created as per public submission (18/08) request to have a general code for SLNB to evaluate nodal stage of disease in patients. Inclusion terms for groin and other specific locations will not be created as this limits the usability of the code and future application of SLNB to other body regions.

Amendments made to other ACHI codes to align with the creation of this code include:

- Deleted excludes note at 30335-00 and 30336-00 in block [808] and replaced with a code also when performed note for sentinel lymph node biopsy or excision (30300-00 [808])
- Amend excludes note at 30332-00 to specify sentinel ‘lymph’ node biopsy or excision ‘of axilla’
- Create code also when performed note for sentinel lymph node biopsy or excision (30300-01 [805]) at codes:

- Lengthening of Adductor Brevis
- Lengthening of Adductor Longus

STANDARDISATION – TUMOUR/LESION

FOURTH EDITION

Background:

In previous editions ofACHI, the terms tumour and lesion were used interchangeable. In the index, there was a cross reference at Excision, lesion to see Excision, tumour... In some instances the index leads to the same code, however in the majority of cases the index leads to different codes. There was no rationale as to why both nouns were used.

To improve and standardise the classification, the term tumour was replaced with the more general term lesion. Whereever possible, MBS concepts were retained to provide easy comparability, as well as ensuring clinician acceptance.

The enormity of the standardisation to the classification resulted in block title changes, code title changes, inactivations, revisions and creations. Includes and excludes notes and inclusion terms were also updated to reflect the changes.

TRANSCATHETER THROMBECTOMY OF INTRACRANIAL VESSELS

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

A public submission to create a new procedure code for transcatheter thrombectomy of intracranial arteries was received in 2009 (reference number 82/09).

Acute ischaemic stroke (AIS) “is a heterogeneous group of vascular diseases that encompasses large-artery atherosclerosis (16.3%), penetrating small-artery disease (lacunar infarcts, 15.9%), cardiogenic embolism (29.1%), stroke of unknown etiology (36.1%), and stroke of other determined etiology (2.6%). A stroke may occur in the arterial or venous vasculature and may be due to either intracranial or extracranial disease. In patients with large-vessel AIS as a consequence of large-clot burdens, thrombectomy offers an alternative method of recanalization” (Baldwin et al 2010). The various intracranial arteries and venous vasculature that could be affected are:

- anterior communicating artery
- anterior cerebral artery
- intracranial internal carotid artery
- middle cerebral artery
- posterior cerebral artery
- posterior communicating artery
- basilar artery
- sagittal sinus
- dural sinus

Research indicated that mechanical thrombectomy of intracranial vessels is performed by extracting the thrombus with a retrieval device (the Merci Retriever /Concentric Retriever Device, Penumbra System) advanced through a guiding catheter via internal carotid artery or internal jugular vein. Balloon angioplasty can be used in conjunction with the endovascular extraction of the thrombus.

While the public submission requested a new code for transcatheter thrombectomy of intracranial arteries, research indicated this procedure is also performed on intracranial venous vasculature.

The following changes were made for ACHI Eighth Edition:

- 90235-00 Embolectomy or thrombectomy of intracranial artery in block [702] Arterial embolectomy or thrombectomy was created with an inclusion term of “Transcatheter embolectomy or thrombectomy of intracranial artery”
- 90235-01 Thrombectomy of intracranial vein in block [729] Venous thrombectomy was created with an inclusion term of “Transcatheter thrombectomy of intracranial vein”
- includes notes of “that with stenting” was added at block [702] Arterial embolectomy or thrombectomy and block [729] Venous thrombectomy

ELEVENTH EDITION

Background:

Following receipt of a coding query, amendments were made to incorporate the concept of 'umbilectomy' intoACHI:

- 43948-02 [989] Excision of umbilicus was created
- 43942-00 [989] Excision of epithelial remnant at umbilicus and 43948-00 [989] Excision of umbilical granuloma were deleted and the concepts mapped to a new code; 43948-01 [989] Excision of lesion of umbilicus

UNCINECTOMY

SEVENTH EDITION

Background:

NCCH received a query regarding the classification of uncinectomy. Uncinectomy is performed as part of an intranasal ethmoidectomy in order to gain access to the ethmoid infundibulum, expose the frontal recess and allow visualisation of the frontal recess. Uncinectomy is a fundamental step in functional endoscopic sinus surgery (FESS). It is unnecessary to separately code uncinectomy when performed as a component of FESS.

An includes note (Includes: uncinectomy) was added to ethmoidectomy and antroostomy codes in blocks [386] Other excision procedures on nasal sinuses and [387] Maxillary antrostomy – to clarify that uncinectomy does not require separate coding, as it is a component of those procedures.

WOUND MANAGEMENT

ELEVENTH EDITION

Background:

Following receipt of a number of coding queries, a review was performed on wound management codes, especially in regard to debridement of wound codes, and terminology documented for these interventions:

- The terms 'excisional' and 'nonexcisional' were deleted from debridement codes in theACHI Tabular List (but retained in the Alphabetic Index as a legacy term)
- A generic code for 'wound management NEC' was created, to classify wound washout, irrigation etc
- Codes were created for vacuum dressing (previously classified as nonexcisional debridement)

As a separate but related issue, the concept of percentage of body surface area (BSA) in blocks [1600] Dressing of burn and [1627] Debridement of burn was also deleted. The BSA percentage value is a diagnostic concept, identified by the assignment of a relevant ICD-10-AM code.

30094-06 Percutaneous needle biopsy of intra-abdominal mass

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

A public submission was received highlighting a possible error in code assignment for percutaneous biopsy of retroperitoneal mass.

The retroperitoneum or retroperitoneal space is defined as the space between the peritoneum and the posterior abdominal wall that contains especially the kidneys and associated structures, the pancreas, and part of the aorta and inferior vena cava (Merriam-Webster medical dictionary, 2011).

Retroperitoneal tumours usually present as abdominal mass lesions and although renal, adrenal and pancreatic masses are retroperitoneal in location, the term retroperitoneal mass is used for tumours without an obvious organ of origin. Some of the common retroperitoneal masses are soft tissue sarcomas, retroperitoneal fibrosis and lymphomas.

An inclusion term "Percutaneous needle biopsy of retroperitoneal mass" was added at 30094-06 [988] Percutaneous needle biopsy of intra-abdominal mass with appropriate index entries to clarify code assignment.

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

NCCC received a public submission requesting the introduction of a new ACHI code for the endoluminal fundoplication procedure (ELF).

Endoluminal fundoplication (ELF) using the EsophyX™ device is a novel minimally invasive procedure for the treatment of gastro-oesophageal reflux disease (GORD) by reconstructing the gastro-oesophageal valve. The device facilitates the creation of the valve by drawing gastric tissue from the fundus between the body of the device and the tissue mould used to shape each portion of the gastro-oesophageal valve at the gastrooesophageal junction, resulting in the effective elimination of GORD.

Studies have indicated that the procedure effectively minimises/repairs hiatal hernia.

This code title was amended to delete the term restorative. An Includes note was added to provide guidance on the types of procedures classified to this code. A default code was also provided to be used when the level of resection (eg high, low or ultralow) is not specified in the medical records.

FIRST EDITION

Background:

This code replaced 32028-01 (the descriptor remains the same). The inclusion of code 32028-01 in the First Edition was a publication error. Note also that the inclusion of 32028-00 against descriptor Low restorative anterior resection of rectum with coloanal anastomosis was another error. This was corrected with a change of 32028-00 to 32026-00. Advice to change these codes was issued with the First Errata (April 1998) to the First Edition and became effective from July 1998.

Background:

In 2010, the Update and Revision Committee of WHO-FIC accepted a proposal from Sweden for changes to the classification of haemorrhoids. The following amendments were also made in ACHI to reflect the revised terminology for haemorrhoids:

- Tabular List

 - 32147-00 Incision of perianal thrombus
 - 32138-00 Haemorrhoidectomy

SEVENTH EDITION

Background:

Methotrexate is used as a drug treatment administered for early ectopic pregnancy. 37217-00 Implantation of fiducial marker, prostate

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

Following receipt of an email, query request and public submission, amendments were made to clarify and improve the coding of insertion of fiducial markers.

MBS released an item number in the July 2011 Medicare Benefits Schedule for the insertion of gold fiducial seeds into the prostate as markers for image guided radiotherapy (IGRT).

Brachytherapy embraces two components: applicator insertion and radiation. In low dose rate (LDR) the radiation from radioactive seeds starts immediately following the needle insertion, while in high dose rate (HDR) the applicator insertion and radiation are usually performed in the same admission. Therefore having two codes 37227-00 [1160]

Implantation of brachytherapy applicator, prostate and 15338-00 [1792] Brachytherapy, prostate allows each component of brachytherapy to be classified with instructional notes 'code first' and 'code also' instructing coders to assign both codes for brachytherapy.

The following changes were implemented for ACHI Eighth Edition:

- Tabular List:
 - Create codes:
 - 37217-00 Implantation of fiducial markers, prostate
 - 90409-00 Implantation of other device(s), prostate
 - Create instructional notes at 37227-00 [1160] Implantation of brachytherapy applicator, prostate:
 - Note: Radioactive (gold) seeds for brachytherapy
 - Excludes: that for radiotherapy planning (37217-00 [1160])
 - Delete 'when performed' from the code also note at 37227-00 [1160]

PAVR is a new and innovative technique for the management of high-risk patients with AS where there is an unmet clinical need for these patients who are often older, frail and have multiple comorbidities.

PAVR procedure involves:

- The diseased aortic leaflets remaining in place and a preliminary balloon aortic valvuloplasty performed,
- A bioprosthetic valve consisting of a self-expanding stent or balloon into which a functional pericardial valve is sewn, is channelled into the aortic orifice over a heavy duty guidewire, and
- Deployment of the stent within the diseased valve which allows the new pericardial leaflets to begin functioning.

NINTH EDITION

Background:

Numerous new percutaneous coronary interventions have been developed in recent years many of which are performed in Australia.

Historically coronary intervention could reasonably have been presumed to be 'open' by the addition of a code for cardiopulmonary bypass; the absence of this code implied that the intervention had been performed by a closed or percutaneous approach. However, with the increase in open cardiac intervention being performed 'off pump', the absence of a code for cardiopulmonary bypass no longer distinguishes closed (percutaneous) and open interventions. Some interventions are specifically defined as being 'percutaneous' in the ACHI code title. Some of these percutaneous coronary intervention codes also have includes notes for 'cardiac catheterisation' to indicate the percutaneous approach via a catheter; the approach is inherent in the procedure and does not require the assignment of an additional code. Confusion arose with an apparent contradictory 'code also when performed note' for when a coronary angiogram/catheter is performed. This appeared, in some instances, to have been confused with the approach when in fact it is only intended for assignment when a diagnostic cardiac catheter/angiogram is performed as an additional procedure(s); the addition of which affects assignment of the DRG.

In an attempt to resolve this contradiction the “includes cardiac catheterisation” notes at 38488-08 [623], 38488-09 [628], 38488-10 [634] and 38488-00 [637] Percutaneous replacement of heart valve with prosthesis were removed in the second Errata of Eighth Edition. As this appears to have compounded the issue rather than resolving it ACCD proposes to reinstate the “includes cardiac catheterisation” notes but remove all ‘code also when performed coronary angiography’ from codes in Chapter 8 Procedures on cardiovascular system, as diagnostic cardiac catheters/angiograms will be coded when such procedure(s) are evident by a separate report detailing the procedure and results.

38488-11 Percutaneous replacement of pulmonary valve with bioprosthesis

EIGHTH EDITION

Background:

Percutaneous pulmonary valve replacement (PPVR) is a new treatment option for patients with congenital heart defects involving malformation of the right ventricular outflow tract. The goal of PPVR is to extend the lifespan of the right ventricle to pulmonary artery conduits, thus delaying open-heart surgery. PPVR uses a bovine, jugular venous valve sutured inside a platinum-iridium balloon-expandable stent.

PPVR is performed under general anaesthesia with the guidance of coronary angiography and involves:

- The dysfunctional conduit remaining in place and a preliminary balloon pulmonary valvuloplasty performed,
- A bioprosthetic valve consisting of a balloon-expandable stent is mounted onto balloon catheter delivery system and channelled into the pulmonary artery over a heavy duty guidewire, and
- Deployment of the stent is achieved through inflation of the inner balloon in the precise position of the obstruction.

Index entries for the eponym Racz were added to First Edition with a cross reference to see Insertion, neurostimulator. NCCH published advice on the queries database and in Coding Matters Vol 11 No 4 (March 2005) supporting the classification of Racz procedure to 39140-00 [32]. Clinical advice supported this advice and agreed that the previous cross reference was incorrect, as the term Racz is not related to a neurostimulator device. SEVENTH EDITION

Background:

Clinical advice from CCCG Neurosciences members indicated that most laminectomies and/or discectomies involve rhizolysis. When decompression of spinal cord and spinal nerve roots are performed it is acceptable to assign a decompression code with 40330-00 [54] Spinal rhizolysis. Assigning 40330-01 [54] Spinal rhizolysis with laminectomy is superfluous and therefore was deleted from ACHI Tabular List. Coders are directed to assign two codes for 'decompression laminectomy with rhizolysis'.
